CHIEF DAN GEORGE ACTOR AND ACTIVIST

A circular illustration of a raven in flight, rendered in a soft, painterly style. The raven is dark grey/black with its wings spread wide. A small red wavy line, possibly a string or a ribbon, is attached to its foot, trailing behind it. The background is a light grey.

CURATOR'S NOTE

At MONOVA, we believe that exhibitions are more than displays – they are conversations that travel, connect, and invite reflection. With this in mind, we are delighted to share two travelling exhibits, each offering unique ways to explore identity, memory, and the stories that shape our shared history.

Chief Dan George: Actor and Activist examines the life and enduring influence of Chief Dan George (1899–1981), whose advocacy for the rights of First Nations peoples and contributions to the performing arts continue to resonate across Canada. Developed in close collaboration with the səl̓ílwətaɬ (Tsleil-Waututh) Nation and the George Family, the exhibition draws upon MONOVA's archival collections to explore key figures, events, and milestones in the First Nations rights movement in British Columbia and Canada.

It also considers the broader history & representation of Indigenous peoples within film and television.

Echoes of Memory invites us to consider the deeply human experiences of remembering and forgetting. Through themes of dementia, memory, and personal connection, this exhibit explores how the stories, objects, and moments we hold close define who we are and where we belong. It offers space for reflection and dialogue within communities, inspiring meaningful conversations about care, identity, age, and shared experience.

These exhibitions reflect MONOVA's commitment to fostering understanding, connection, and collaboration across cultures and generations. We are excited to see how they resonate within your communities and the conversations they inspire.

INTRODUCTION

Chief Dan George: Actor and Activist is an exhibit exploring the life and legacy of səl̓ílwətaɬ (Tsleil-Waututh) Chief Dan George.

The exhibit focuses on Chief George's (1899–1981) influence as an advocate for the rights of First Nations peoples and his career as an actor. It also considers other significant figures, events and milestones in the First Nations rights movement in BC and Canada, and touches on the wider history and portrayal of indigenous people in film and television.

The exhibit draws on MONOVA's rich archival collection, including paintings with interpretative panels, and was developed in close collaboration with the səl̓ílwətaɬ (Tsleil-Waututh) Nation and the George Family. A large, wall-mounted timeline details important events in the relationship between BC's indigenous people and the governments of BC and Canada.

TESTIMONIALS

This exhibit has given us the opportunity to connect with our First Nations neighbours and to integrate these communities into our programs... The Chief Dan George exhibit is part of a greater Canada-wide pattern of reconciliation and recognition of our First Nations as the original peoples who acted as stewards of this land"

THE SIDNEY MUSEUM

"This program provided an experience I could have never achieved in the classroom. Some of the students in my class are related to Chief Dan George and they were beaming with pride as they walked around & interacted with the displays.

ECHOES OF MEMORY

ECHOES OF MEMORY

INTRODUCTION

Echoes of Memory invites you to explore the complex and touching themes of memory, aging, and connection.

In a world where dementia and memory loss are becoming increasingly prevalent, we often approach these challenges in technical terms – but Echoes of Memory seeks to go beyond the facts and statistics.

Here, we delve into the very essence of what it means to remember – and to forget – and how our personal collections of objects, experiences, and stories shape our identities and sense of belonging.

This travelling exhibition offers museums a versatile way to spark new conversations alongside the stories already being told in their permanent galleries, all while encouraging reflection on how we can raise awareness and create meaningful moments with our loved ones.

PURPOSE

By hosting thoughtful and sometimes challenging conversations as found within Echoes of Memory, we are able to position our museum spaces as vital parts of both the present and future of the communities we serve.

One of the unique strengths of this exhibition is its flexibility. We provide the contextual panels & conversation starters, with each host museum then curating its own objects for display.

This approach allows every venue to choose the items that will inspire the most interaction, spark deeper connections, and foster intergenerational dialogue.

“Made me think of my own perception of aging, the importance of community, and the honour it is to grow old”

What is Dementia?

Dementia is not just aging. Dementia is not just losing your memory. Dementia is not a single disease. But it is a condition to pay attention to.

When Dementia Comes Knocking

Dementia is isolating. Dementia is heartbreaking. Dementia is devastating. And the number of those with dementia is only growing.

Taking Control

Dementia is preventable. Taking care of the body, mind, and community eases the pain that dementia brings.

Aging Through the Looking Glass

Look into the mirror and see your age, looking back at you. Look into society and find a surreal world where our knowledge holders are dismissed. Is this your future?

Cultural Care in Dementia Care

From language to culture to history, connecting our seniors to their culture can help keep them connected to their sense of self as dementia takes hold.

Meaning-Making Memories

We have wondrous memory-making minds. Storing snippets from our lives, they feed into our sense of self and our place in our culture.

When Stories and Objects Collide

The objects we often hold most dear are those that bring back memories. And it is the stories that go with them that make them powerful.
